What is this type of insurance?

Financial protection for renters covering loss or damage to personal belongings and liability to others. It may pay additional living expenses if the home becomes uninhabitable after an insured event.

What is insured?

- ✓ Personal property – up to $50,000: Covers damage or loss of personal belongings, such as clothing, furniture, and electronics, caused by events like fire, theft, wind, lightning, hail, or vandalism.
- ✓ Personal liability – up to $100,000: Covers legal expenses if someone takes legal action against you for injuries sustained in your home and covers any bodily injury or property damage that you cause to others or their belongings, at home or elsewhere.
- ✓ Loss of use – up to $10,000: Additional living expenses if the home cannot be used after an insured event, including hotel, laundry, and food.
- ✓ Medical payments to others – up to $1,000: Medical costs for guests injured in an accident at the insured address.
- ✓ Tenant water damage – up to $300,000: Liability for water damage caused to the landlord's property.

What is not insured?

- ✗ Damage caused by floods or earthquakes
- ✗ Roommates' belongings
- ✗ Wear/tear, neglect, pests
- ✗ Water backup from drains or sewers
- ✗ High-value items such as jewelry, bicycles, cameras, musical instruments, or art worth more than $2,000

Are there any restrictions on cover?

- ! A $1,500 deductible applies per claim.
- ! Sub-limits or exclusions may apply for certain belongings, such as high-value items.
- ! Reduced cover may apply for items stored outside the home.

Where am I covered?

- ✓ At the insured address in the United States as per the insurance policy
- ✓ Personal property while temporarily away is generally covered worldwide but may be subject to a reduced limit/off-premises sub-limit

What are my obligations?

- Pay contributions on time.
- Take reasonable care to protect property and prevent losses.
- Inform the insurer promptly if a claim occurs.
- Provide relevant information and documents when requested.
- Notify the insurer of any change that could affect the risk (e.g., change of address).

When and how do I pay?

- The contract is annual. You may pay once per year or in 12 monthly installments.
- The first payment is due on the start date. If you choose monthly payments, subsequent installments are due on the same day each month.

When does the cover start and end?

Coverage starts and ends on the dates shown in the insurance schedule and renews automatically each year unless cancelled by you or the insurer.

How do I cancel the contract?

You may cancel at any time by written notice.
